

Ricoh Honors Documation Inc. With Renaissance Award

2/17/2006 - WEST CALDWELL, N.J., Feb. 16 /PRNewswire/ -- Ricoh Corporation, the leading provider of digital office equipment, awarded its fourth annual Renaissance Award to Documation, Inc. of Texas and New Mexico, at its recent National Sales Dealer Meeting in San Diego, California.

The Renaissance award is presented to an individual reseller of Ricoh products who has made significant improvements internally to their organizational process and has transformed their business in a positive way to better support the Ricoh brand.

"As a result of superior performance and impressive growth, Ricoh is pleased to present Documation, Inc. with the fourth annual Renaissance award," said Tom Salierno, President, RICOH U.S., a division of Ricoh Corporation. "Documation understands the importance of creating tailored solutions for its customers and everyone at Ricoh is impressed with their achievements."

Individual resellers of Ricoh products throughout the country are candidates for the award, which recognizes achievement, a proven track record in sales performance, and the ability to manage and maintain strong customer relationships.

"Documation takes great pride in receiving this prestigious award," said Jim Sheffield, President, Documation of Texas. "Our tenured management and engineering teams are constantly looking at the best technologies to provide our customers and our relationship with Ricoh is a key to our success. Our knowledge of the industry and emerging technologies tells us Ricoh is the partner of choice in the industry today. Documation is excited about the future and we look forward to evolving our business model to ensure the success of our customers."
